LCSO SPIDER Unit Gets Another in Its Web

Around 6 p.m. last night the Leon County Sheriff's Office Special Projects Investigations Detection Enforcement Response (SPIDER) Unit saw a driver not wearing his seatbelt while on proactive patrol in the area of Ridge Road.

Deputies stopped the vehicle at the intersection of Orange Avenue and South Monroe Street.

The passenger, 18 year old Theodore Anderson, was out on bond for charges of carjacking, drug possession, and resisting arrest.

While conducting an investigation on the two vehicle occupants, deputies saw a plastic baggie with an illegal substance in Anderson's pocket. The substance tested positive for synthetic cannabis.

Anderson was handcuffed and placed in the back seat of a patrol vehicle. Once there, Anderson began to spit on the windows, bang his head and kick his feet against the inside walls of the patrol car. Deputies had to physically force a hobble strap (a device designed to keep legs still) onto Anderson, along with a spit mask.

On the way to the Leon County Detention Facility Anderson, began to threaten the deputies' families and curse at them.

Once at the detention facility, Corrections Deputies located another bag of synthetic cannabis, this one with individual baggies packaged for sale, in Anderson's underwear.

Anderson is being held in the Leon County Detention Facility after violating the terms of his release on the previous charges. The driver, 44 year old Christopher Dorhout, was given a notice to appear, for additional drug paraphernalia found in the vehicle, and released at the scene.
